

MAJOR GENERAL TIMOTHY A. REISCH

The Adjutant General, South Dakota

Major General Timothy A. Reisch was appointed by Governor Dennis Daugaard as South Dakota's 21st Adjutant General on 2 April 2011. He also serves as Commanding General for both the South Dakota Air and Army National Guard and guides the preparation of 4,300 Air and Army National Guard citizen Soldiers and Airmen and 950 full-time Federal and State employees to respond in times of state or national emergency. General Reisch is responsible for federal and state missions, assignment of leaders, recruiting, training, equipping, mobilization, facilities and public relations. He is also responsible for formulating, developing and coordinating all policies, plans and programs affecting Army and Air National Guard members in South Dakota. General Reisch serves on the governor's cabinet as the Secretary of The Military. In this capacity, he is the principle advisor to the governor on all matters involving use of the National Guard.

General Reisch began his military service when he enlisted in the South Dakota Army National Guard in his hometown of Howard in 1978. He received his commission through State Officer Candidate School in 1980. He commanded both Company C and Company B of the 153rd Engineer Battalion. In July of 1998, General Reisch was named Commander, 153rd Engineer Battalion. Following battalion command, General Reisch was assigned as Chief, Exercise Division, South Dakota Army National Guard, and later as Deputy Commander, South Dakota Joint Force Headquarters. Following completion of Army War College, he was named Commander, 109th Engineer Group based in Rapid City. In April of 2007, General Reisch was named the first Commander of the 109th Regional Support Group. He was named the Assistant Adjutant General – Army in May 2009.
